

Who needs a license at the Farmer's Market?

- Chef/cooking demonstrators that give out samples from their booth
- A person purchasing fruit, vegetables , eggs (not of their own production) to sell.
- A person purchasing other processed food items (not made by them) to sell (such as cider, baked goods, jams, etc..)
- Food service must have a license from the local health dept (immediate consumption)
- Vendors cutting melons at the market, for samples or sale

No food license needed at the market for food vendor, if:

- Sell whole uncut produce of their own production (fruits & vegetables)
- Sell non-food items (sales tax may be required)
- Are licensed at a facility where they make the product (jams/jelly sect..)

Licensed at processing location:

- Untreated cider
- Chicken that they raise themselves
- Maple syrup
- Eggs
 - washed
 - candled
 - graded
 - sized
 - new cartons & labeled
- Honey
- Jams & Jellies
- Baked goods
 - pies
 - bread
 - cookies, etc.

Temperature Control:

- Eggs - 45°F or lower
- Cut melons - 41°F or lower
- Keep refrigerated items - 41°F or lower
- Frozen items - 0°F (zero degrees) or lower
- Cider - 41°F or lower